February Spiritual Practice: Communion

Communion is defined as the sharing or exchanging of intimate thoughts and feelings with another. God seeks communion with us all day, every day. When we turn the attention of our hearts and thoughts to Him, we seek communion with Him as well. "My heart has heard you say, 'Come and talk with me.' And my heart responds, 'Lord, I am coming.'" Psalm 27:8

Communion as you end each day:

"You, Lord, give true peace. You give peace to those who depend on you. You give peace to those who trust you." Isaiah 26:3
In the evening, there is likely much that has unfolded that has disrupted your peace. Choose to spend time discussing your day with God. Be honest with what you share and be open to how He responds.
Pray: "I trust you completely, God, with what I know and do not know, with what I can and cannot see, with how I do and do not feel. It's true that you have grasped more of me than I have of you, and this truth is now my safety; not that I can't know you, but that my knowing is a never-ending journey-a sacred gift of divine discovery." -Stahan Coleman

May you rest in God's knowing every part of you and loving it. And may you have peace in the knowledge that He's answering the prayers you don't even know how to pray yet, communing with you in the depth and mystery of who you are.
